

Ingrid Finnane

Ingrid Finnane is a Business Analyst at the National Library of Australia, where she has worked on projects to develop a Rights Management system and an Audio Delivery system. Prior to joining the Library, Ingrid worked in information technology at the University of Queensland and the National Museum of Australia. She has a Bachelor of Arts in Philosophy and completed graduate studies in Classical Greek. Rumours of her METS expertise are often exaggerated.