

Judith Gray

Judith Gray is coordinator of reference services for the American Folklife Center in the Library of Congress, Washington DC, USA. She is an ethnomusicologist with expertise particularly in the earliest wax cylinder recordings of Native American music. She chairs the Archiving interest group for the Society for Ethnomusicology and is one of the Society's official archivists, and serves currently as Vice-Chair of IASA's Training and Education Committee.