Name: Mies Langelaar
Born: 20th of November 1955
Living: Rhoon, Netherlands

I studied history of art and archaeology at the University of Utrecht. After finishing my studies I worked for some years in an antiquarian bookshop.

In 1992 I followed a post doctorate course in information management and worked as an information manager for several municipal administrations in the Netherlands.

Since 2007 I am information manager with the Municipal archives of Rotterdam. Here I worked with Willemijn Heeren en Laurens van der Werff on the Choral project, wich occupes itself with spoken document retrieval of the audio archives of Radio Rijnmond, the local radio.

In addition I am also the project manager of the project E-depot Concern, a project that has as goal the realisation of a trusted digital repository for the municipality of Rotterdam.

In both functions my task is taking care of fragile digital information and organising awareness of the importance of digital sustainability
